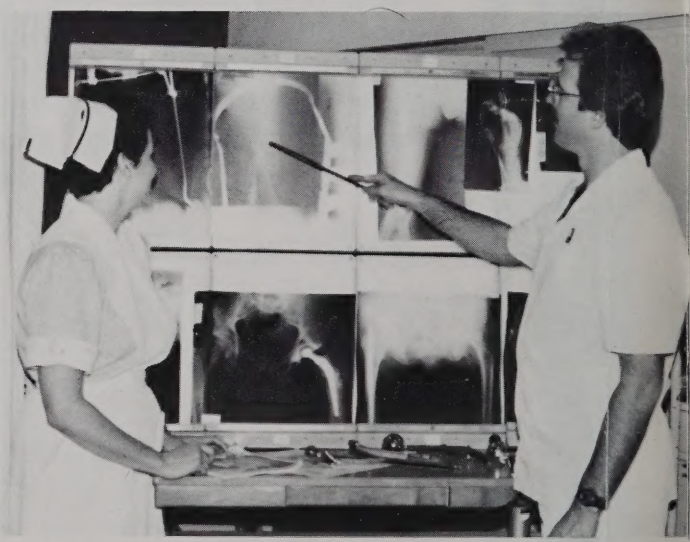
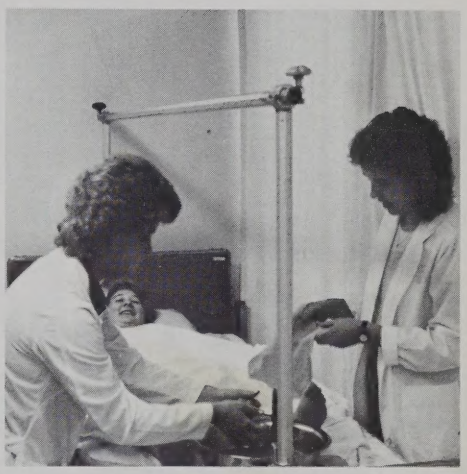
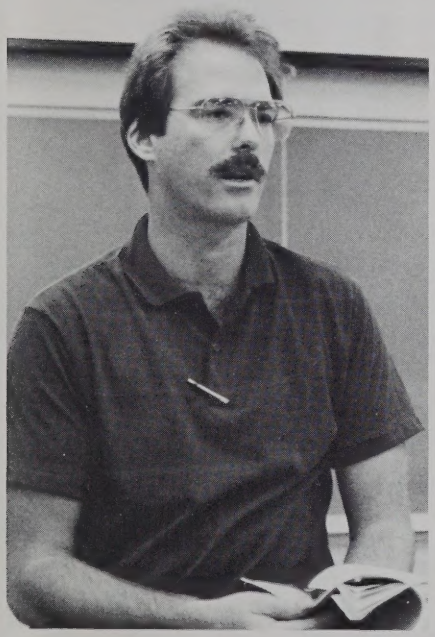
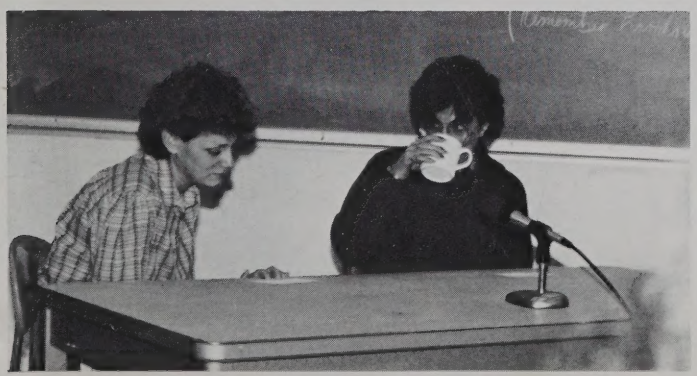
NURSING AT IMSN . . .



Give to my eyes, light to see those in need.
Give to my heart, compassion and understanding.
Give to my mind, knowledge and wisdom.
Give to my hands, skill and tenderness.
Give to my ears, the ability to listen.
Give to my lips, words of comfort.
Give to my spirit, the desire to share.
Give to me Lord . . . strength for this selfless service and enable me to bring joy to the lives of those I serve.

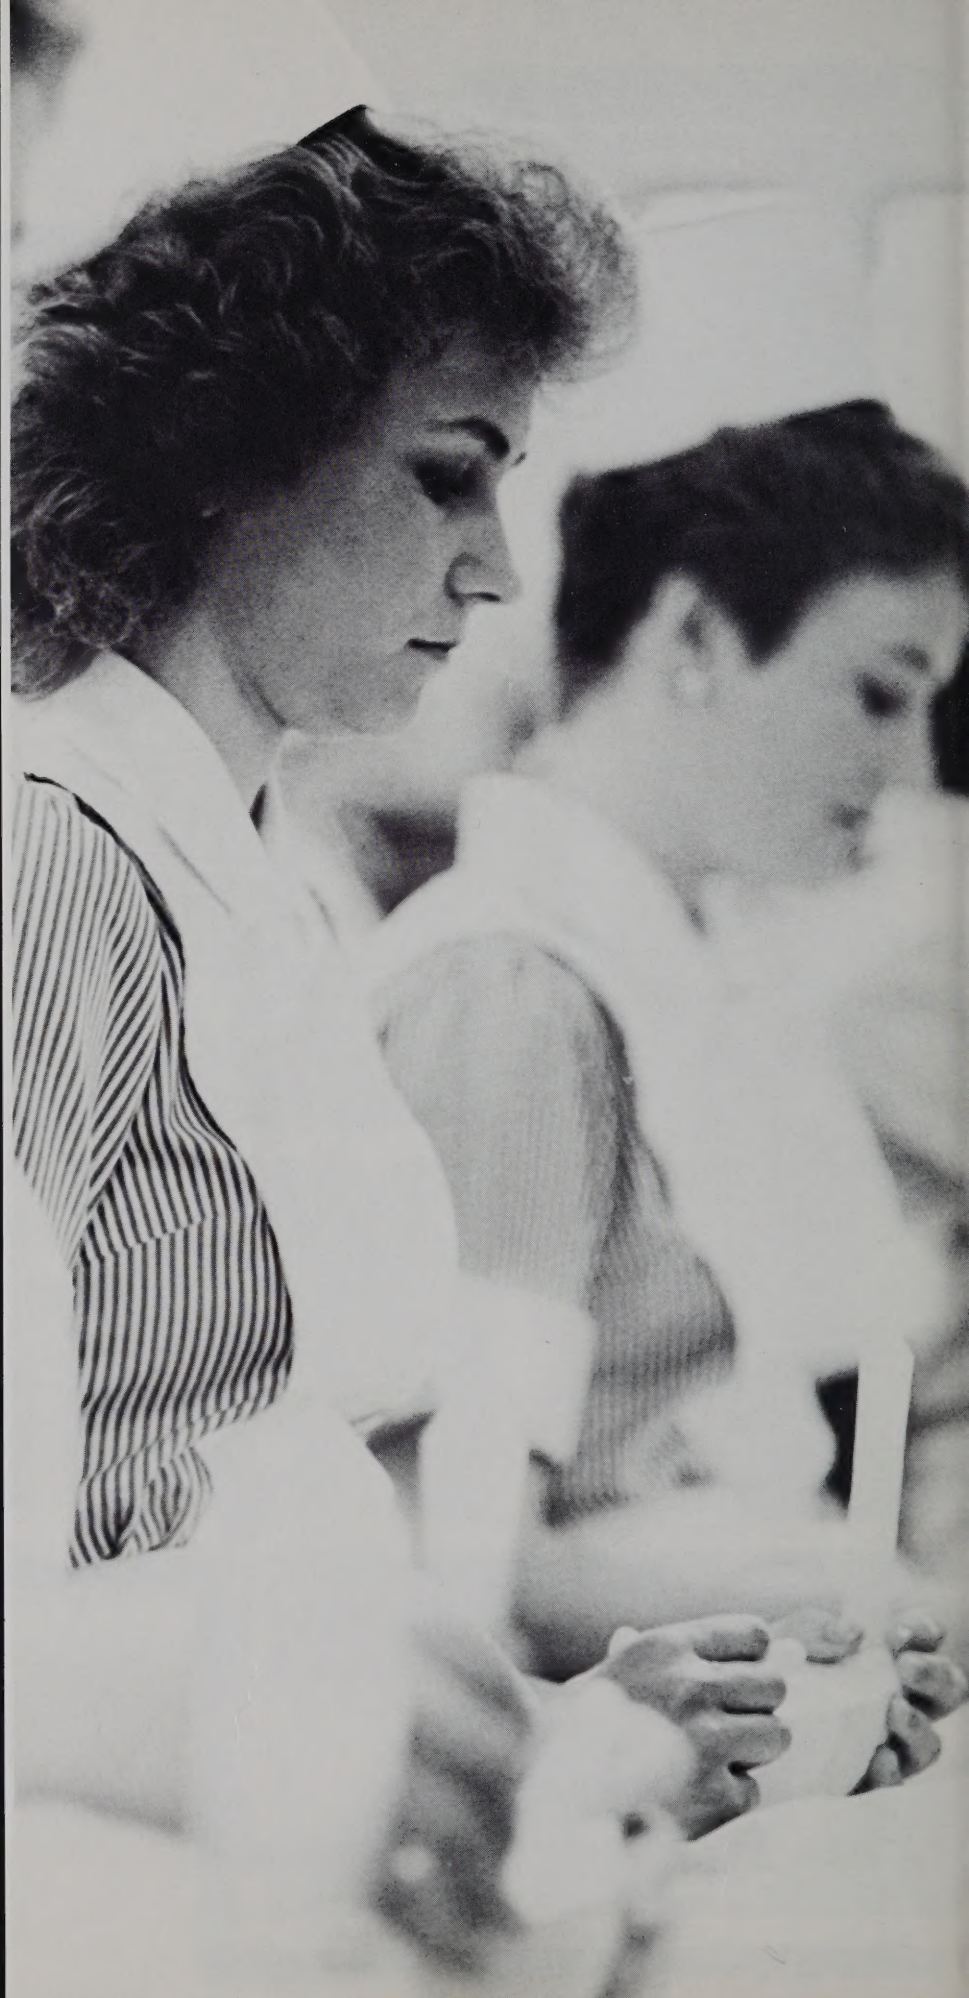






FRESHMEN

CLASS OF 1988



Janell Jass and Lisa Johnson were two of the 46 student nurses to receive a cap or emblem at the capping ceremony held at Grace United Methodist Church on January 19th.

FRESHMEN NURSING 101 & 102

For some, Level I clinical seems like a part of another century, far removed from sophisticated patient care equipment and detailed care plans. But we all know that this first year serves as the foundation upon which future growth is built. And you'll have to admit that it held its own unique brand of excitement .....

* Administering your first enema to a patient who couldn't "hold it"
* Giving a bed bath to a fellow student
* Finding out your male patient couldn't give his own peri care
* Bouncing the needle off the skin during your first injection
* Taking 35 minutes to change an occupied bed
* Putting the blood pressure cuff on backwards
* Discovering your first temperature would be a rectal one
* Bouncing the needle off the skin during your fifth injection
* Using four pair of sterile gloves during a catheterization
* Putting on your first pair of TED hose
* Spending 15 minutes changing a sterile dressing only to have the physician "rip it off" five minutes later with his bare hands
* Holding up the entire OR schedule while you preop a patient
* Bouncing the needle off the skin during your 10th injection
* Getting more water on yourself than on the nursing home resident during a shower

DRAKE CANDIDS . . .

We'll never forget our Freshman days at Drake! Waiting for cabs in below zero weather; many long hours of lecture and experimenting in labs. The pungent odor of formaldehyde and cats, and bringing them back to the dorm to get caught up on dissection. Testing live frogs and mice brought us one step closer to understanding human physiology.

CAPPING . . .

JANUARY 19, 1986

A SYMBOL OF ACCOMPLISHMENT

"To live in your own way ...
To reach for the goals you have set for yourself ...
To be the you that you want to be ...
That is success."

MEDICAL-SURGICAL NURSING 203

201 Nursing Instructors:
Jan Payne BSN, MS
Gae Stroud BSN
Catherine Walsh BSN, MS
Kathy Widelski MSN

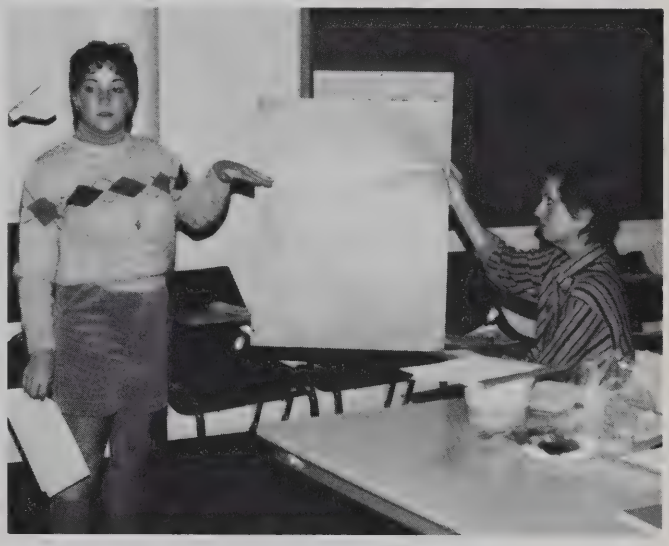
Remember Nursing 201 — You're suddenly in the world of . . . acidosis-alkalosis; systole-diastole; positive pressure-negative pressure; chambers, lobes and nephrons.

You're thinking of risk factors, prudent diet, and taking an inventory of your own health habits. You swear to change your life style. You learn terms you know you'll never hear again unless they show up on state boards — G6PD, Thalassemia, mycosis fungoides, Dressler's Syndrome, coccidioidomycosis, on and on . . . .

You made it through, and learned alot (we hope) about the use of transport of the Big "O".

MEDICAL-SURGICAL NURSING 202

202 Nursing Instructors:
Sheryl Miller BGS, MS
Margaret Monahan BSN, MS
Colleen Hensel BSN, MA



Gee, do I remember Nursing 202! "G", that sums up the course all right - genitourinary, gastroenterology and glands. We learned everything you would ever want to know about food and every route it could possibly take in the human body. It was enough to make people old before their time. By the last week of the course, I really felt like I belonged in the gerontology game!

MEDICAL-SURGICAL NURSING 201

203 Nursing Instructors:
Lois Hill RN, MS
Phyllis Jefferson RN, MSN
Margaret Cooper RN, MS

Remember Nursing 203? Cast care, traction lab, "total hip and knee" patients. Making alot of occupied beds. Trips to Iowa Sickroom Supply, Easter Seals Center, Mercy Pain Clinic, and the Iowa Commission for the Blind - where everyone experienced a day without sight. Then there was "trach" care, neuro checks and the Glasgow coma scale. And who can forget rehab!

JUNIOR CANDIDS

JUNIOR/SENIOR STRIPING CEREMONY

Striping

A velvet band of ribbon
(Be it narrow or it wide)
Is placed upon my cap,
And I wear it with much pride.

It took a year to earn it,
A year of study and hard work,
Months filled with satisfaction, knowing
That my goal I could not shirk.

This velvet band means much,
It is a responsibility to fulfill,
For with it comes not only prestige,
But a greater goal not to stand still.

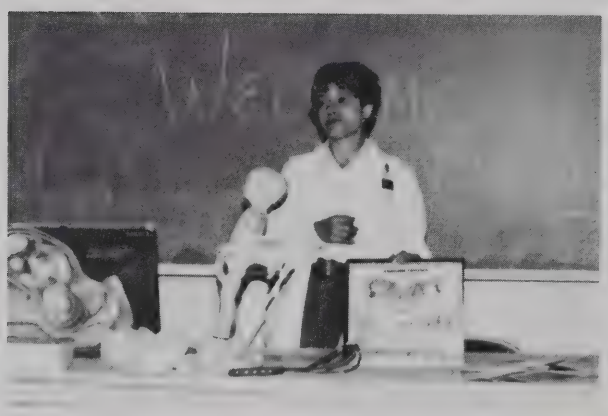
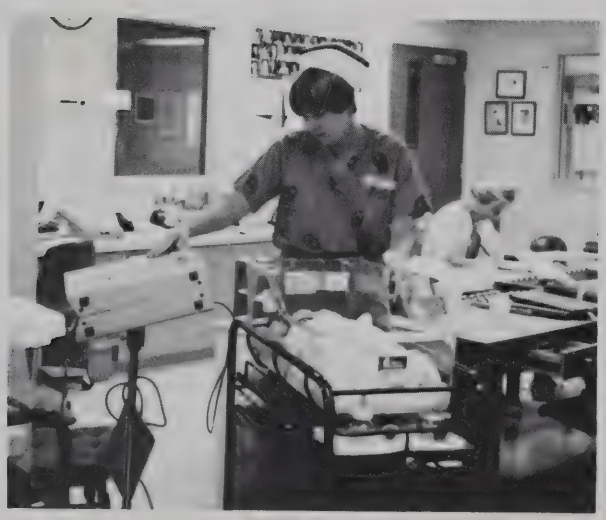
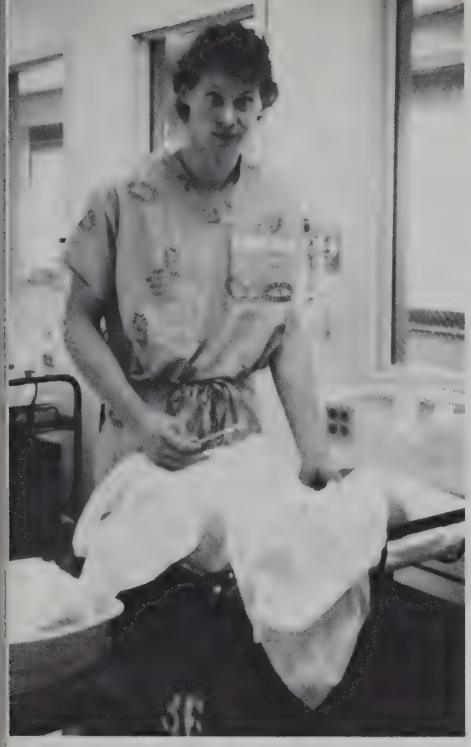
OBSTETRIC/GYNECOLOGIC NURSING 301

Instructors: left to right,
Colleen Sward RN, BHS
Deborah Taylor Leighter RN,
CNS, MS
Harriet Elliott BSN

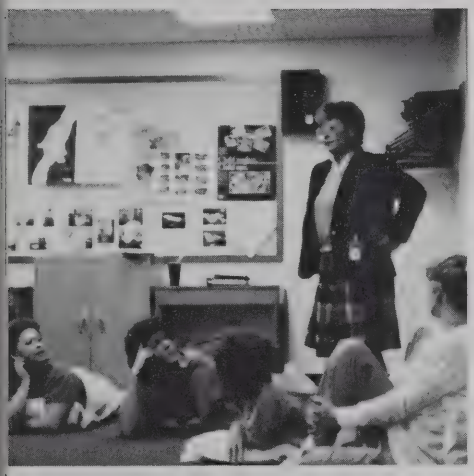






REMEMBER NURSING 301?
TO HAVE AND TO HOLD . . .

Everything you ever wanted to know about havin' and makin' babies, but were afraid to ask . . .
Peripads! Peripads! — They're everywhere! They're everywhere!
Back in the saddle again . . .
How to apply a diaper in three easy steps . . .
Do newborns really have personalities of their own, or is it just our imagination?
Is phototherapy really a free tanning session?
Do you remember trying to synchronize rocking chairs?



PEDIATRIC NURSING 302

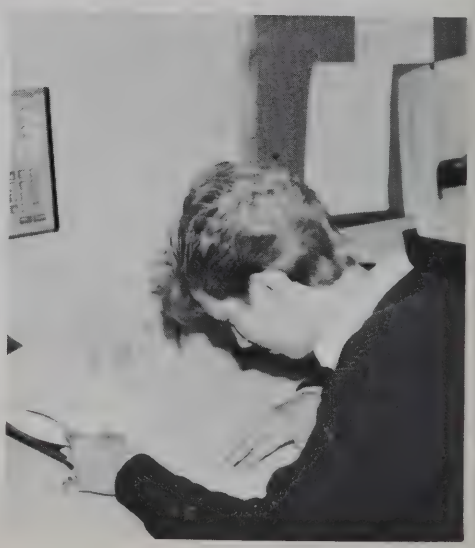
Pediatric instructors:
Cathy Travis BSN
Kathleen Gross RN, BAN, MEd
Wanda Marshall BSN

Finally a chance to "play around." 302 gave you the opportunity to play during clinical. Once in a while, though, the instructors had to remind us to make sure we had a patient with us. You also never knew what would be on your uniform when you got home!

MENTAL HEALTH NURSING 303

Mental Health instructors:
Wynell McGalliard RN, BSN, MS
Sheila Dark RN, BSN

Pam Jeffries, above, last day as clinical instructor.



You all remember Nursing 303? It's the rotation that requires:

-"people" clothes and you realize you don't have any?
-talking to people and you don't remember how?
-learning principles and you don't know what one is?
-calmness on the outside while you're pitting out?
-knowing yourself when you feel like you've never met?
-tolerance for ambiguity when all you want is facts?
-test defense rather than test review?
-opinions and you're pretty sure you don't have any?

Well, if you don't remember us, we'll always remember you.

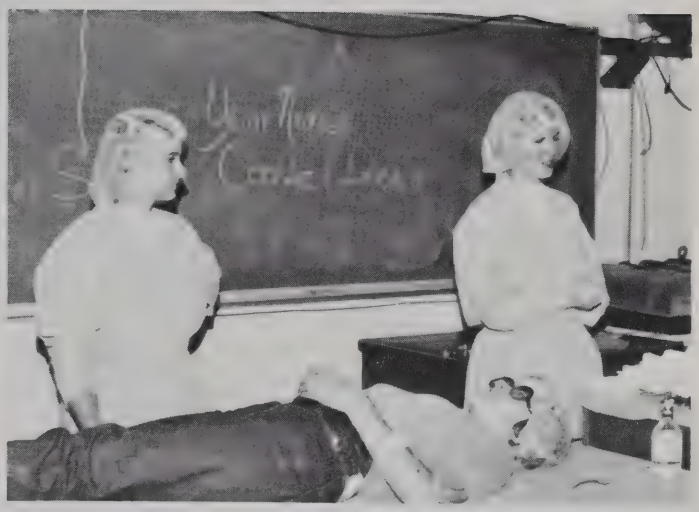
ACUTE CARE NURSING 304

Acute Care instructors:
Carol Hull RN, BSN
Mary Brown RN, BSN
Lorraine Rankin RN, BSN



Nursing 304. Scrub class followed by a restless night, followed by the first scrub-in and observing a patient from the inside-out!

Rotation through ICU finds you utilizing old skills in new ways and learning new skills as well. PACU and OSC finds you caring for patients experiencing surgery as in-patients and out-patients. It is also assisting anesthetized patients back to reality. Emergency Department keeps you on your toes caring for any and all patients seeking treatment. Broadlawns ED is a real eye-opener. Follow-throughs and Home Visits round out the clinical rotation.

NURSING 401

How to describe Nursing 401 . . .
It's management, community health, reality shock and quality assurance.
Then there's a contract to sign with many projects to follow. But when all is said and done . . . there is plenty of time for fun.

It'll be hard to forget the class of '86. Nothing escaped the "TP" gang! Imagine disoriented instructors trying to find their way through a maze of toilet paper and newspaper. Then add a little KY and shaving cream . . . I wonder who had to clean it all up?

The statues in Cutler Park were robed in the latest "TP" fashions. Then there was the annual dip in the fountain (bubbles added, of course). This year a security guard (involuntarily) joined in on the fun.

The last day of clinical brought out the best in everyone! Imagine after 3 years of school, it took six students to make one bed.

Boxer shorts, colored pens and scissors brought about some strange looking uniforms. After an explanation to our patients, they shared our excitement and wished us well.

CLASS HISTORY

In 1983, we each had a dream for the future. We filed an application, and waited (some of us not so patiently) for an answer. When that letter of acceptance arrived, we began making preparations for the most challenging three years we could ever imagine.

In June, we attended freshmen orientation. It was our first chance to try on student uniforms and meet our soon to be classmates. August 29th quickly came, as we began as an awesome sized class of 100 students. Packed into classroom 1, we discovered a new world of bedpans, vital signs and that first embarrassing bed bath! Then there was Drake — taxi cabs, dead cats and our favorite lab instructor, Fred. And who will ever forget Dr. Wacha?

As we moved into our second semester, we finally felt as if we had accomplished something as our caps were placed upon our heads on January 15, 1984. Now was the time for the "five rights of medication administration", IV's and our first patient care study. Remember the first injection we gave each other?

As August of 1984 approached, we began preparation (maybe hesistantly) for our second year. As we received our first stripe, we took on the title "juniors" and along with that came added responsibility. It was a year for cardiac monitors, diet teaching and traction. We found out how a year of intense med-surg nursing could change our insecurities to confidence and maturity.

January of 1985, brought bitter cold temperatures and an outbreak of chickenpox, which gave some people an unexpected three weeks off.

We were a class to sit back and watch as nationwide layoffs occurred with DRG's; wondering what would be available to us as we graduated.

On March 25, 1985 we reached another milestone in our education: that long awaited for first senior rotation. Remember how 3/4ths of the class wanted mental health or surgery first? We always did prove to be a challenge to Mavis. We somehow made it through that long 10 weeks with a severe case of spring fever.

Summer vacation seemed too short somehow, but as we came back August 12th, we knew it was for the last time. Two years behind us already and on August 19th we received our second stripe designating us as "seniors". We finally felt like graduation was just around the corner. We filled our final year with OB, peds, mental health and acute care.

By November, we were already preparing for graduation as we attended a workshop on resume writing. We finally were faced with establishing a realistic career objective. The big job hunt began in February and March as we distributed resumes and prepared for our first interviews. As graduation neared, many of us had jobs lined up.

Attending brunch was the highlight of graduation day, as our instructors became our peers. Miss Nicholson reminded us of some memorable moments in our three year experience at IMSN. Finally, that long awaited for time arrived both for ourselves and our families. We saw that our goal had been met. In 1983 we had a dream. In 1986, we have reality!

BRUNCH . . .

A special time between faculty and students, when the students finally see what the faculty is REALLY like!
Faculty and student skits; the passing out of stripes and pins; and many tears of happiness.

Gayla Tow receives recognition as "Student of the Year". Pam Jeffries is "Special Class Person".

Our special thanks to Wanda Marshall for all her hard work as "Class Advisor".

GRADUATION

MAY 30, 1986

For the second time, officially, I stand at the alter tonight. This time I pray I am more mature and ready to accept whatever lies ahead.

(I stand out tonight.) The first time I came to the alter, my attire was not distinguishable from those more advanced. But now, I too, am in all white. And with my wide black band on my cap, I take my place among the graduates who have passed before me.

The long hours, seemingly "routine duties" and stressing moments flash through my mind; but at this moment seem unimportant. Yet without them, I would not be eligible for this ceremony.

In my mind's eye, I can see my parents sitting behind me. How proud they look; how happy they are! Through me, they have seen their dreams and wishes materialize. My heart leaps out to them. Like a child, I want to run to them; hug, kiss, and love them because of all they have done to help me be here tonight.

The candles burning brightly on the alter flash another scene before me. I am reminded of another ceremony when I lit my own candle and vowed to do the best I could.

So in remembrance, and in a renewal of that dedication, a prayer comes forth from my soul, asking for His guidance in the new world that has been opened to me tonight.

FROM THE EDITOR . . .

Left: Marie Gebauer, Yearbook Editor

Sue Moravec, Yearbook Photographer

While planning this book, I realized that after graduation, many of us would be going separate directions. The "memories" presented in this book are to serve as a "bridge" to old friends, some of whom we may never see again. Although this book will not meet everyones' ideals and expectations, I hope each person who reads it can find something that brings a smile or sparks a memory.

My apologies to anyone who was inadvertently omitted. My thanks to the faculty members for their submissions to the yearbook copy and pictures as well as support. Thank you to the students who submitted pictures.

Special thanks to Sue Allyn for acting as yearbook advisor for most of the school year and to Jan Strahorn for taking over at the end of the year. Thank you to Tom Phelps for assisting with picture identification. I'm glad someone knows everyones' name! And finally, recognition and thanks go out to Sue Moravec for an excellent job in the yearbook photography. A yearbook is only as good as the pictures in it.

In closing, I hope that each of us can meet again someday. Whether it be in the workplace or at a reunion. To the freshmen, juniors and new seniors - Be persistent in striving for your goals. It's worth it!

Sincerely,

Marie Gebauer
